Program Description :	A Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) is responsible for supporting medical staff in administering care to patients with various injuries, illnesses or disabilities. CNA responsibilities include helping patients bathe and maintain proper hygiene, feeding patients, ensuring patients take their medication and assessing vital signs. A Phlebotomist is trained to take blood samples from patients in a medical setting and transfer them to the appropriate laboratories for testing. Their duties include preparing the testing room with the proper tools, keeping patients calm while drawing blood and labeling samples for further analysis in medical laboratories. This is a Dual certified program and students will receive two certifications as a CNA and Phlebotomist.
